THE "THIRD HOUSE."

What is alleged to have been the "Third House," or the group of lobbyists who are alleged to have shaped all legislation at the last session of the Kentucky General Assembly, is a source of danger to the government of the state. And while the activities of the Third House are kept under cover and not known to the general public the effects of its power is seen in the legislation and the lack of legislation at Frankfort. The trail of the serpent is seen all along.

The taxpayers are beginning to wonder why it was that the bills attempting to put a tonnage tax on coal were not permitted to be even reported from the committees to which they were referred. Those of the citizens who visited Frankfort during the session of the Legislature were amazed at the apparent control that was exercised by the Kentucky Jockey Club. And if, as it is charged, the coal interests and the race track gambling interests combined forces it is not so strange that the people were powerless in what is sometimes supposed to be the people's Legislature.

The newspapers of the State are stirred up over some of the alleged deals that is claimed were put over by the combined efforts of the above named special interests, and next year those members who seek re-election are going to have some embarrassing questions put to them, and if their votes are recorded for the above interests it is going to be mighty hard to explain away the motive for such votes. Morgan county is a legislative district of itself. Who ever seeks the Democratic nomination in this county will have to convince the people that he is not subject to the influences of the coal interests or the Kentucky Jockey Club. The Courier is going to see that they come out on these questions, and it will not support any one who is favorable to these sinister interests, either before or after nomination.

In the first place, the pari-mutuel gambling law is in itself immoral, degrading and against public policy. That of itself is sufficient to induce all good people to oppose it. But the Jockey Club is not content with keeping its gambling privileges, but must set out to control all legislation of every nature. It was generally talked at Frankfort, around the Capitol, that all legislation had to be endorsed by the Jockey Club. The idea that a lot of race track gamblers can control the legislation of the State should be abhorrent to all good citizens, to say nothing of the humiliation of such a state of affairs. A State-wide effort should be made to get free from this bunch, and will be.

The coal interests had their lobby there, too, and were powerful enough to prevent any legislation looking to the compelling the coal interests from paying a just tax on the production of coal. When a Commonwealth gets so that the special interests are more powerful than the people it is time for the people to wake up to the fact and seek to remedy it. The alleged "fixing" of the Normal School locations is but a small share of the part it is said the racing and coal interests played in the last session of the General Assembly. It is doubtful if the interests above named were sufficiently interested in the location of the normal schools to meddle in it, but if they did it was because they felt that they were too firmly entrenched in power to be dislodged, and made a blunder.

The school incident was only the occasion for the unleashing of the press of the State. It merely furnished and excuse for the demand for an investigation of the sinister activities of the coal interests and the race track gamblers. If the investigation is started and the probe made in earnest it may be that startling developments would result. It ought to be comparatively easy to find why the coal tax bills were pigeon-holed in committee and never had their first reading. A rigid search for the nigger-in-the-woodpile might disclose many things that would be interesting to the public. Just who compose the Third House would doubtless be equally interesting to the general public, and would doubtless astonish the average citizen who stays at home, obeys the law and pays his taxes.

I would not doubt furnish an interesting study if it were possible to obtain a statement of the campaign donations of the Jockey Club to the candidates for Representative in the last election. It is claimed that this body of gamblers is not adverse to putting up for candidates on both sides during a campaign—to the Democrats thru its Democratic members and to the Republicans thru its Republican members. It plays both sides to play safe and just the little matter of which party wins control of the legislature is of small moment in its young life. It has helped the winner.

The remarkable thing about it is that the citizenship of the State seem indifferent to the situation. They know in a general way that this evil has a strangle hold on the State, but seem unconcerned about it. But let some man with sporting instinct be caught in a friendly poker game and the hue and cry goes and the officers are importuned to do their duty and save the boys, or let the festive "coon" be caught "olling the bones" and he must be nabbed to uphold the dignity of the law. And the same people who demand that poker and craps be suppressed stand for a law to stay on the statutes giving the race horse gamblers the privilege to corrupt the youth of the land, and on crooked races, too.

What are YOU going to do about it when you vote next year?

Probable Fatal Cutting.

Kelly Perry, son of R. L. Perry, of Baze, was stabbed and probably fatally wounded by Elbert Baldridge Saturday. It is said that Baldridge was drunk and came on the porch at young Perry was talking to a girl and said to Perry: "You look like you wanted to fight me." Perry Baldridge stepped up and caught him around the neck and pulled him forward and stabbed him in the back. He then got on his horse and started off and was later followed by R. L. Perry, who found him dead drunk by the side of his horse. He arrested him and turned him over to the officers, who brought him to town and lodged him in jail. He was later held to the action of the grand jury.

Delightful Lawn Party

Drexel Moore gave a delightful party to the young people of the town two weeks ago, which owing to our lack of help last week we did not mention. The party was given on the beautiful lawn of his mother, Mrs. R. A. Baldwin, and was given in honor of his young friend, Carlisle Hubig, of Louisville. The lawn was lighted with Japanese lanterns, following were present: Misses Jeanie Phillips, Eula Arnett, Georgia Franklin, Jewel Lacey, Clara Carpenter, Wilma Nickell, Mabel Arnett, Mable and Eva Spurlock, Ronald and Bonnie Franklin, Eula Mae Spencer, Hallie Day Back, Gladys Nickell, Frances Gardner, Emma Lake Horton, Ruth Davis, Elizabeth Cole, Bernice Nickell, Nell Cole and Cagle Turner; Messrs. Fiscal Notice.

According to law it is the duty of the sheriff to kill all dogs found at large without the license tag. And all dogs, even after having been licensed, are not permitted to run at large. The law in regard to licensing the dogs is a law of the land and is intended to be obeyed, and since the Board of Health has announced an unusual amount of hydrophobia among the dogs it makes it imperative that this law be enforced. Get your license tag or expect your dog to be killed.

HALF SHEET THIS WEEK.

Our linotype operator left last week without notice and until we can get another we will have to do the best we can. The editor is all the "force" on the job now, but we hope to make different and better arrangements than we have ever had. Be patient with us.

JUMPING AT CONCLUSIONS

We should not be too ready to jump at conclusions. Just now the press of the State is full of assertions that the fixing of the two normal sites was decided upon at the time the original bill was amended, and even before the names of the Commission were announced. The editor of the Courier made several trips to Frankfort during the session of the Legislature and heard these rumors, but knowing the majority of the men on the Commission it was hard to believe the rumor. As to whether Murray is the best or the worst place in western Kentucky I do not know, and am not willing to judge by that alone, but any impartial judge will agree that Morehead is not the most desirable location in eastern Kentucky. To decide on Morehead, now, in view of the fact that it offers less advantages than any other site, would strengthen the belief that the location of the schools was a political deal as charged. The W. C. B. M. school at Morehead has not been a financial success because that place has not been able to attract students. To locate a normal at a town that has signally failed as a school town under the most favorable opportunities would of itself direct grave suspicion toward the Commission. And if the eastern school is located at Morehead, after the Murray choice, it will be hard for the Commission to escape the odium that will attach. No amount of explaining will convince the people that the newspaper charges are not true. But until the Commission does locate the school at Morehead—if it does—the Courier is going to believe that the Murray site was chosen on merit and that the Commission was not actuated by ulterior motives.

THE BABY ACT.

It is more like the acts of babies or immature children to say that because we did not get the Normal School at the last meeting of the Commission that we should be against the road bonds. Neither the people of Mt. Sterling or the Big Sandy can help that. Ninety per cent of the people of Mt. Sterling are in favor of West Liberty having the School, and they are not responsible for the attitude of the Commissioner from that town. And while the completion of the road through here would be of great benefit to Mt. Sterling, it will benefit us vastly more. If we don't get the school let's vote the road bonds and get the road. A hard surfaced road will be of so much much benefit to all the county that we can not afford to play the baby and lose.

State Superintendent Colvin is to be commended upon his action in regard to the school fund. There has been too much "borrowing" from the school fund to keep up appearances in other departments, and every citizen of the State will endorse Mr. Colvin's action in forcing the State Treasurer to leave this fund intact for the purpose for which it is intended. The teachers receive little enough pay without being compelled to wait for their money which has been illegally used for other purposes.

If gambling is wrong it is wrong and ought to be suppressed. The question of extending the Kentucky Jockey Club's gambling privilege is a question of right and wrong. The Louisiana Lottery was banished because it was gambling, though that institution offered to pay all the expenses of the State and give bonus besides. Yet that form of gambling was not as vicious as the race track gambling. The lottery was conducted on the level.

Remember that the carrying of the road bonds will mean the expenditure of more than three dollars for each dollar we put up. And that money will be expended in the county. Besides, good roads will give us markets for all our farm products and bring freight rates down. You can not afford to vote against the bonds if you wish to see the county prosper. Vote for the bonds.

Some of the Republican newspapers are giving it out that President Harding will retire to private life at the end of his term. Trust the newspapers to get the news while it is news. The people had already decided that Mr. Harding would retire, and the Republican newspapers show perspicuity in getting the news first.

There has been some misapprehension concerning the right-of-way for the proposed road on Grassy creek. The Courier is reliably informed that every land owner on that creek, save one, has signed the right-of-way, and that these are filed with the Highway Commission.

We are just wondering if Speaker Jim Thompson has any political aspirations. We hope he has.

With the strike unsettled, the tariff bill passed the cost of living going up and wages going down, and the Normal Commission unable to agree, we are in the middle of a heluvafix.

Will some advocate of the pari-mutuel gambling explain the difference between race track gambling and crap shooting? Why prefer one form of gambling?

Anyway, Jim Thompson's vetoed tax bill will never make him Governor of Kentucky.

GRASSY CREEK

Late planted corn is being cut a little short as result of the drought, though early planted corn was just about matured when the drought set in. Everything considered, there will be a good average crop.

B. C. Lykins, of Ashland, is visiting relatives on Grassy at this time. The subject of the bond issue is being agitated to a considerably extent in some parts of the county, and why any one should oppose it I can not understand. Doubtless some oppose it who will not have to pay a single penny of it, while many of the wealthiest men in the county are for it. Some will oppose it for no other reason than it was not located to go past their house. However, they will not offer that as their excuse and will deny that that is their reason. I live two miles from the line of the road, and if I lived ten miles I would vote for the bonds. We can't expect the road to run by all our doors. The engineers who located the road presumably located it for the best interests of the county in general and every one can afford to be for the bonds. Farmers, lawyers, doctors will all be benefitted by the good roads. The building of the road will give every man who wants to work a job that he could not get otherwise, therefore the working man who votes against the bonds will be voting to deprive himself of a good job. Is there an enterprising citizen, viewing the matter from a business standpoint, who can conscientiously vote against the bond issue? I think that some of Morgan county's most eloquent speakers should make a speaking campaign throughout the county to fully explain the intent and benefits of the proposed bond issue, as a great many do not understand the issue. I voted for the other proposed tax and I am for the bonds.

(This week's letter.)

W. H. Gevelon, of Ashland, was calling on the J. E. Fugate Store Co. Wednesday. Will is an old schoolmate and it was good to shake his "paw."

Mrs. Pearl Hale and little son, Alex, of Middletown, Ohio, are visiting J. A. Hale and family.

If we can't get graded roads all over the county in one year that is no reason why we should not at least get one good highway through the county, and thereby open up an avenue for transportation of all surplus products to the big grass markets. Then from year to year we could build roads from all parts of the county, intersecting with the main trunk lines. Then the farmer would have every incentive to produce a surplus as he could get a ready market.

COW BOY.

OFFICE CAT

"We seldom carry any luncheon when on a day's drive."

"How is that?"

"We take along our Chow dog."

H. V. Nickell says that the cheapest looking thin at a bargain counter is a man waiting for his wife to get through.

The boy using profane language his mother severely reprimed him and inquired: "Where did you learn to swear like that?" "From father's shaving, uncle's golf, brother's silver and sister's parrot," answered the youngster promptly.

A Warning to Maidens.

Mary had a little whim:
 She got it from a stranger:
 The watchful doctors still

 To save she's out of danger.

"I hope you are not afraid of microbes," apologized the paying teller as he cashed the school teacher's check with currency.

"Don't worry," said the young lady, "a microbe couldn't live on my salary."

If the members of the graduation that they mean of getting fine close knew how many heartaches attended the procuring of close for the rest of the class they'd have a thorough understanding of a livin' fact.

Harbingers of Prosperity - The cow, sow and hen are getting more recognition at this time than they have ever received and they are a trio that will bring prosperity if we will only stay with them long enough.

Our Pest Contest

I am the guy who lives next door. The women my praises sing galore. I do all the work around the house To keep in right with my wedded spouse.

Solish desire is best described as being the inside dope on modern business methods.

The shivering little radishes, they cluster close together, and in a crowd they cry aloud, "dad burn the dad burned weather."

Remember the hired girl that usta work for 50 cents a week and took the 50 cents out in clothes?

Terrible State - "Mayor of Evansville, Ind., and prominent furniture manufacturer, died following a short illness." - Furniture Journal.

Live and learn seems to be a problem for which a lot of people can't find solution.

Little Pansy Pevlish says that the last quarrel her parents had was when the pipe burst in the bathroom mamma said she wished she had married a plumber instead of a jek-leg lawyer.

It must be a shock to a bobbed-haired girl to see her tresses coming down the street "switched" to some other person's head.

One advantage of prohibition: It don't cost so much for a person to drink himself to death.

"Man can make more money at anything than a woman," wagers C. N. Nickell. We'll take the bet for thirty-seven simoleans and designate manhandling as the test.

"I am just waiting for my husband to complain about my extravagance this month."

"Ready to give him an argument are you?"

"You bet I am! His cheek at the pool room was sent to the house by mistake, and I've got it."

No Use Trying - It seems to be impossible to keep a middle-aged woman who has just had her hair bobbed from thinking the operation has made her a flapper again.
